Free Must-Have Apps

FOR TRAVEL

Curiously Erin

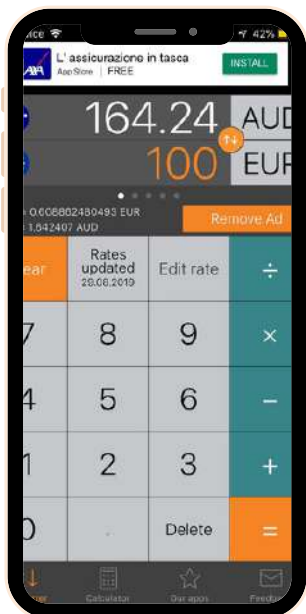

APP #1

Currency Converter Plus

This free app is a convenient tool to have when travelling through multiple countries. It's my go to app for currency conversion and works offline with the most recent exchange rates.

It's simple to navigate and is easy to change between currencies to ensure you are never getting ripped off.

Includes a feature to pay bills easily in multiple currencies.

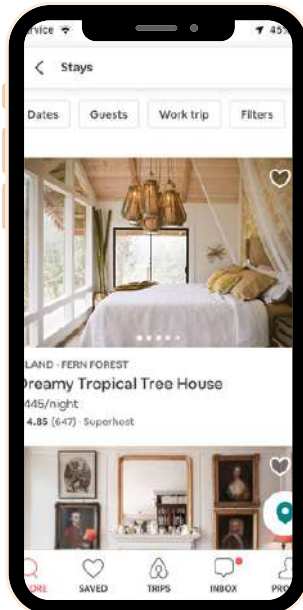

APP #2

Airbnb

Airbnb is my go-to app for accommodation when travelling. I love how you can filter between 'entire place' or 'private room' to keep costs down. I have found some incredible deals on Airbnb where I have scored my own apartment for cheaper than I would pay for a hostel dorm.

If you're new to Airbnb to can grab my code for $55AUD off your first booking here.

A great feature of Airbnb is the ability to search by luxe or unique homes. You're always guaranteed to find something cool.

APP #3

Adobe Lightroom

Adobe Lightroom is a free to use photo editor on mobile devices. It's great for editing on the go and if you save a few of your popular presets, photos can be changed in a single touch.

With easy to use slide controls, the app is perfect for beginners to play around with colour, effects and details. For more advanced users Lightroom includes a tone curve, colour mixes and premium features.

Top tip - Many of the Instagram influencers have free ready-made presets you can download.

APP #4

Mapy.cz

My absolute favourite map app for hiking and exploring new areas. Maps can be downloaded for offline use and routes can be saved to include way markers.

What I love most about this app that sets it apart from others is the topography lines. Seeing the elevation gain or decline in a hike really helps with planning.

Mapy.cz allows you to see trails which may not be shown elsewhere on the internet and is a definitely helpful when in the wilderness.

APP #5

Workaway

I'll let you in on a little secret - Workaway has been the way I've saved over $5,000 on accommodation costs this trip.

In brief, Workaway connects you to hosts who are looking for volunteers to help with certain projects in exchange for food and accommodation.

Different hosts would like you to stay for varying periods of time, but it is worth looking at destinations you would like to travel to.

You must sign up to Workaway.info online and to contact hosts pay a $42 USD membership fee.

APP #6

Skyscanner

I personally believe the best way to find the cheapest flights is with Skyscanner as they scan over 1,200 sites to find you the best deal.

The Skyscanner 'everywhere' feature opens a map to show you the cheapest flights all around the globe during different time frames. Just enter your departure city to find inspiration.

You can also use the app to book hotels and car hire at great prices.

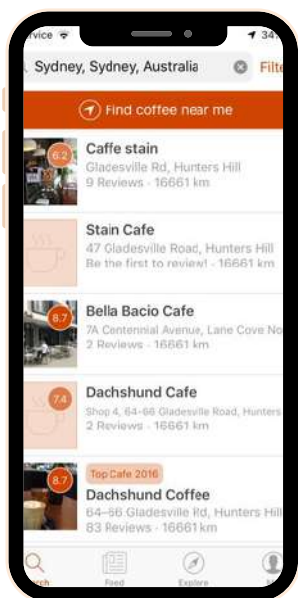

APP #7

Beanhunter

Do you love coffee? Then Beanhunter is a must-have app for you.

Beanhunter connects you to the best cafe and coffee locations in cities around the world. The app runs off reviews and recommendations from its users and rarely disappoints.

I love wandering around a city on foot from cafe to cafe. Not only do I get to experience hip local neighbourhoods I also get a great coffee at each pit stop.

There you go!

You are now equipped with all the tools you need to make travel a breeze.

I use these apps on a daily basis in the lead-up and while on my travels. From making bookings, editing photos, finding delicious coffee and not getting lost on a hike these apps should save you time and add enjoyment to your travels.

Travel far friends!
